St Marys Students win competition

Jack Greenwood, Jesse McColl, Corey Thow and Stephen Lea, (pictured below) have played for Launceston United in the Northern Tasmanian Junior soccer League in 2011.

Their team was successful in winning the league for the Under 16 division 2.

On Sunday, the boys were presented with their championship medals at a ceremony in Launceston. Club officials praised the boy's commitment in travelling to Launceston every week over a number of months through rain, hail and flood. Together they became a vital part of the team's overall success, scoring regularly and achieving some great results.

Thanks to Mr Le Fevre for organising scholarship funds that assisted with travel costs, and enabled families to ensure that the boys did not miss a game all season.

The championship trophy will be on display in the school office for term 3.

The St Patricks Head & Esk Valley Historical Society Inc have decided at this time to postpone their bi-monthly field days and walks.

We apologised for this, but unfortunately current circumstances just do not allow it to happen.

We would, however, like to thank all those wonderful folk who have supported us on the walks over the past couple of years and we can only hope that some time down the track they will return in some form.

The Legges

Another significant chapter in the history of the Fingal Valley closed last month with the announcement that Robert Legge was retiring from all forms of Local Government.

You would have to go a long way in any Australian Shire to find a person with 47 years of service, particularly when 13 of those years were served as Mayor. Over that time the Fingal Valley and East Coast has seen some dramatic changes, many of which have been somewhat controversial, but Robert always stood up for what he believed was right for the Community regardless of the popularity of his decision. His leadership through good times and bad has been second to none, we only have to look at the recent floods and road closures to see how he stood up for Break O'Day and handled the media. In the 2006 bushfires he became the face of the East Coast and handled it with complete professionalism.

Almost half a Century of service to the community by the current Robert is a culmination of four generations of the Legge family's contribution to the development of the Fingal Valley. Robert's great, great, great grandfather, Robert Vincent Legge, who arrived in Van Diemens land on board the ship Medway in 1827 was granted 1200 acres of land in the Break O'Day Plains by Lieutenant-Governor George Arthur. Robert left his five sisters, who had travelled with him from Ireland, in Hobart and made his way up through the midlands, into the Fingal Valley and took up his grant at the eastern end.

Along with a small herd of sheep and a couple of convict servants, Robert was said to have camped in a hollow log beside the Break O'Day River until he was able to build a more substantial dwelling and begin to clear his land for farming. One can only imagine the harshness of the times, but Robert was a determined man and soon established himself enough to marry Elizabeth, start a family and build a settlement he named "Cullenswood" after his family home in Ireland.

By 1845 Robert had built a fine homestead at "Cullenswood" and by 1847 the property was complemented with a fine Anglican Church which soon became the central point of the district. In no time a small village with a number of cottages, hotel, school, blacksmith shop and a Catholic Church sprung up around the entrance to "Cullenswood".

The next Legge to make a mark was Robert and Elizabeth's eldest son William. As a lad he was sent home to England to school and after joining the British Army, became a Colonel where he served in India and played a leading role in establishing Hobart's Kangaroo Point Battery in the 1890s. He returned to "Cullenswood" in the early 1900s and worked tirelessly for the Church and the community. One of his major projects was to improve medical facilities in the Fingal Valley. Colonel Legge died in 1918, but his work was continued by his son Robert William who was honoured by laying the foundation stone for the new St Marys Hospital in 1927.

It is also worthy to note that out of the first European settlers to the Fingal Valley only the Legge family still remain on the original grants. Some historians, however, will argue that "Benham" and "Malahide" would be in that category, but "Benham" was originally granted to a Captain Grey, not Roderick O'Connor and William Talbot, the first grantee of "Malahide", had no children of his own and the property was left to his nephew.

There comes a time in all our lives when age catches up and we find it necessary to slow down, it's obvious that time has come for Robert Legge. His role and that of his ancestors in community leadership is, surely, worthy of the highest recognition. We can only hope now, that the next generation of Legges can see their way clear to carry on the family tradition, one can not imagine our community without their leadership.

Vol. 44 No 10 September 8, 2011

The Valley and East Coast Voice

Re: the forthcoming Council elections.

I note that nominees will soon be called for those proposing to stand for election to the Break O'Day Council. Tasmania, like many places in the world is undergoing major economic and social change and is currently in a recession that is affecting every area and person in one way or another. Although Tasmania has roughly the same population base as Canberra, it is a regional one, spread over a larger land mass and has little or no infrastructure which is a vital factor for the future. Councils therefore are not only the very nucleus of the area they serve but are actually an important part of the whole governmental structure.

The job they do is absolutely critical to the economy and wellbeing of the people they serve. They are in a position to assist and help develop new ventures that could provide vital jobs, be innovative in adjusting to problems that climate change is bringing, assist each of the towns within their province equally and fairly and serve their constituents in ways that are constructive and not self-serving. I have lived in many places throughout Australia both regional and urban and am familiar with what I call the "big frog in a little pond" syndrome where some people, once they are in a public position of perceived importance, unfortunately take themselves instead of their job a little too seriously.

As a constituent of the Break O'Day Council, I would like to know exactly what platform and policies each person standing for Council intends putting forward. I want to hear policies that are substantially long sighted with a plan and a vision for the future, not just for one specific area, say St Helens, but for all areas and towns. It is very tempting for Councilors residing predominantly in one area to be a little one-eyed when dealing with matters before Council instead of looking to the good of the whole.

One critical issue that absolutely needs to be addressed with a plan of action is the constant closure of St Marys Pass after heavy rain. Councilor McGiveron expressed his concern most eloquently on Leon Compton's morning radio show on the ABC earlier this week. The closures this year of both the St Marys and Elephant Passes cost businesses in both the townships of St Marys and St Helens quite dearly. Small towns and small businesses are the backbone of regional Tasmania and whatever affects them affects every person living in the area they support. There are tough times ahead for every citizen living in Tasmania as the current economic crisis within Tasmania is not going to go away in the near future; there are huge problems to be faced. One definition of insanity is to keep doing the same things over and over again expecting a different result. We are in a new age now where the old industrial age paradigm is completely useless to the needs of now and the future where we need a new kind of thinking and working.

Councils can not only play a vital role in reconstruction and recovery of Tasmania as a whole but can actually lead the way with good policies and planning, support and a strong vision for the future. The Councilors we elect need to not only promise these things but actively work to deliver them and be accountable to the people they serve in the process. Elizabeth Elliott.

Letter to the editor

Progress? Streetscape? "If it works don't mend it."

So much wisdom speaks from the past out of our language: often to no avail.

A small coastal town in the top right hand corner of Tasmania has the administration of many villages (towns) in its Break O'Day region! Naturally the wisdom of its administrators wishes to endow the entire region with the blessings they themselves enjoy. Willy Nilly.

Conformity

The Romans and the Normans knew that if you were to control populations you first needed to count them - census. Then you could control and tax them with such benefits as you, in your great and superior wisdom, considered fitting.

The British took this so far they generously shared their view of civilisation and enslaved half the world.

The Break O'Day Council may not be quite so ambitious but in its way it's up to the same tricks: let us make you like us.

Do we need a streetscape? We've got a glorious and enduring landscape - isn't that enough?

Visitor's $

Does the council sincerely believe that fellow Australians want to see a townscape identical with the one they left at home in W.A? QLD? NSW? NT?...

And do overseas visitors come expensively here for a sanitized version of Van Dieman's Land? Or do they hope for something authentic, real, looking and tasting of the history of the place?

It works wonderfully well as it has for generations - why mend it?

If it comes down to the angle of parking then we've arrived at the minutia, the rock bottom trivia to which the mind of the bureaucrap will stoop. We boast a wide, clear main street, as we're warned at the library great care must be taken when reversing: obvious/common sense.

O.K, change the little white lines on the road if it pleases thee and we'll try and relearn, but the road's O.K, it doesn't need bloody silly little islands of sanctuary in the middle to clutter the place up. We're valley people, we live in a more spacious, rarified air, don't try and clutter up our lives!

David Lawer.

Vol. 44 No 10 September 8, 2011

Editor of the Valley Voice

ST MARYS. YOU ARE BEING TOLD AND YOU HAVE BEEN WARNED. PLEASE TELL A FRIEND, SO EVERYONE KNOWS AND UNDERSTANDS. NOW.

DO NOT COMPLAIN AFTER THE EVENT. (End of September) IT WILL BE TOO LATE FOR THIS TOWN.

By now, I hope most of the residents of St Marys and anyone that does any shopping or business in St Marys are aware that the current 45 degree angle parking on the southern side of Main Street St Marys, the side where approximately 90% of the shops between Cameron and Story Streets are located, is according to DIER & Council "No longer an option" and it will be changed.

There are TWO (2) proposals for parking, (parallel or 30 degree angle parking) they are both posted for inspection at the St Marys Library and Post Office and copies are also available at these locations.

I have been told by council staff that the above proposal(s) will be advertised (or possibly have been, by the time you have read this) and you will then have 30 days to place any submissions (arguments against/alternatives) to council by approximately the end of September.

A vote will be taken at a community meeting at a point in the future.

The plan receiving the majority of votes being accepted by council and implemented. I do not have a problem with some of the safety measures imposed or the fact that we may get a decent footpath (streetscape)

However, if you were down Main Street on Wednesday 24th (between 11 & 4) or Saturday morning, 27th of August, you witnessed the parking future of St Marys (for the southern side of the street.)

With a maximum of 15 parking spots being offered, (currently there are 30) these parking bays would have been filled or exceeded on what I thought, were slow traffic days; at a quiet time of year.

On busier days you will have to park on the other side of the street, after you go around the block, if you can get one there, that is.

If either of the current plans are accepted, I have grave concerns that many St Marys businesses will not survive and there is a high possibility that this community may not.

David Watkins.

Public Notice

This year The Lymphoedema Centre will not be holding The Melbourne Cup Luncheon.

The long weekend falls a week later which means it is a full working week for the Centre making it hard for a small committee to cope.

Since the Melbourne Cup does not fall on the Tuesday following a long weekend the committee of the Lymphoedema Centre felt it would be better not to hold the Race Day Luncheon but it will be replaced by another function at a later date.

The normal raffle will still go ahead as an interim fund raiser.

We would like to thank those that offered to help with the luncheon this year.

Ken Stonehouse and the students from the St Marys District High School, St Marys Football Club, St Marys Golf Club, Manna Farm.

BREAK O'DAY COUNCIL

TOURISM DEVELOPMENT STRATEGY

COMMUNITY MEETINGS

The Break O'Day Council invites interested community members to attend community consultation meetings for input into the Break O'Day Tourism Development Strategy

When: 21 September 2011 @ 6 pm at the St Marys Hall, St Marys
22 September 2011 @ 6.30 pm at the Portland Hall, St Helens

Break O'Day Council has acknowledged the significance of tourism to the region and has embarked on the development of a tourism destination development strategy. To this end, the Council is seeking feedback from the community about all aspects of tourism in the region through conducting a broad consultation program. As part of the consultation plan, the Council is hosting community meetings for interested parties in St Helens and St Marys.

The consultants who have been engaged by Council to develop the Tourism Development Strategy who will facilitate discussion around a set of questions which can be obtained prior to the community meetings by emailing chris.hughes@bodc.tas.gov.au or phoning 6376 7900. It must be noted that the questions are meant to guide rather than limit the discussions.

The Say Cagerattler

I can't believe we are still arguing the point on this Forest Agreement issue. I can't believe the greenies either. How much of the forest do they want locked up? I understand under the new provisions that 430,000 hectares will be protected for the future. That's an awful lot of bush let me tell you. Around 40% of Tasmania was already protected before this so how much will it be after this? Despite this fact they want more. I think it's around another 100,000 hectares or so. You're a greedy mob you greenies, I sometimes wonder if the so called conservative groups will ever be happy until there is no timber industry of consequence anywhere in this state of ours. I also have grave fears that the current discussions and agreements will go much further or last in fact. At least one or two greenie groups will not commit to leaving the timber companies alone in the future.

We all appreciate that the timber industry itself needs much revision and to a degree needs to re-invent itself somewhat to have a real chance of a fully sustainable future but I think perhaps the Conservation Movement in all it's guises needs to do exactly the same thing. In numerous cases this mob seem to think they know it all, even in regard to the timber industry itself. They don't. They can't.

Maybe before anything is signed there needs to be a fully independent assessment on the operations and objections of BOTH SIDES to try and reach outcomes that will serve both causes well. Those priorities are obvious. Number one would be to find and identify forests that are either of World Heritage significance and old growth forests that have genuine reasons such as rarity, flora and fauna disruption, carbon capture and even economic inability reasons to be ever considered for timber outcomes. Once done then lock them up for perpetuity. Number two would then look at the remainder of the forests and meaningful discussions should then identify where genuine sustainable and profitable timber operations could occur and what can be done to help facilitate this. Environmental protection provisions could still be applied of course.

Why not use some cash and employ the expertise of people from countries who have successfully revised forestry practices and protection and look at what might be achieved. Just might be better than throwing vast amounts of dosh at such things as they are at present.

The key to it all is for both the greenies and timber industry to be honest with themselves as much as with everyone else. A bit like alcoholism or gambling really, in that you need to admit to a problem before you can fix it. Let's fix it.

What do you think?

To the Valley Voice

I would like to say a big thank you, to not only a wonderful human being but also a true gentleman.

Thank you to Mr Gerald Aulich who took time out of his busy schedule to come and talk to me on Friday morning the 26th of August, concerning the parking. I really appreciated our talk. Thank you once again.

Media release

Federal Liberal candidate for Lyons, Eric Hutchinson, has called on Dick Adams MP to find alternative funding for the Co-operative Research Centre (CRC) for Forestry.

Mr Hutchinson's comments are in response to the latest attack on the forestry industry by excluding the Co-operative Research Centre for Forestry from the current round of Federal funding.

"Forestry is worth $22 billion annually to this country, it employs 80,000 people directly and thousands of others indirectly.

"With the current pressures in the forestry industry, research and development is more critical than ever," said Mr Hutchinson.

"The CRC's focus is on the diverse use of timber products, particularly the balance of native and plantation timbers.

"As well as their scientific work, they have been undertaking studies focused on the socio-economic factors influencing timber communities, and helping forest communities transition to ensure sustainable futures.

"In this current climate of downturn, closures and transition in Tasmanian forestry, the work of the CRC for Forestry is vital," Mr Hutchinson said.

"Mr Adams claims to care about the forestry industry in this State. Here is yet another opportunity for him to speak up and find funding for the CRC for Forestry. I am looking forward to hearing what action he is going to take," Mr Hutchinson said.

All's well underway, approximately 5 weeks and we're off!

Car's almost done, final RACT check 14th September... so all's great. Hopefully the cars will be visual and on the road within the next week or so, couple of hold ups, but that's life.

Don't forget our fundraiser...come take a walk with the kids on bikes, one lap of the sports ground is all we ask you to do...make a great family afternoon walk, and community get together. Guaranteed the kids will have a ball, plenty of giveaways... so ring and register. After your lap, enjoy a bbq & drinks provided at a small cost by St Marys School Association!

Lets hope for great weather. xxx

Vic bash was recently in our area, they had 3 days in the state!

So thanx to everyone thus far...hope to see you at St Marys Recreation Ground 24th!

St Marys Sports Centre Inc. news Kackhander

Thanks to every single person involved in the successful development of the new borders and surrounds on the bowls green. It has come up a treat. Next project is to get the rubber backing attached around the green. There are too many to individually thank on this but what a great team effort all round. With other things yet to do there will be further working bees held prior to the season commencement. This Saturday September 10, at 10am will see the next working bee, so if you can help out in any way it will, as usual, be greatly appreciated.

The next general bowls meeting is set down for Friday September 16, at 7.30pm and secretary Nikki Viney would like to advise any new bowlers, that they can contact her on 6372 2552 any time to sign up.

Thanks to Trevor and Jack Viney for spraying the golf greens last week to do the moss treatment. This will be a great help to the spring growth on the greens.

There's a couple of great golf days coming up soon that had to be rescheduled after the recent waterlogging of the course. Once the dates have been locked in we will advise all when to look out for them.

To club news, and it's great to report that we have some new members and a few enquiries on same. That's great. Along the same lines, once the bowls green opens we hope to commence BAREFOOT BOWLS. This is primarily aimed at non members who would like to try this great game. All you have to do is turn up on the night with a few bucks to have a drink and a feed and hopefully enjoy your bowls. Flat soled shoes can be worn eg. Sandshoes or runners. If footwear has a substantial heel then it's BAREFOOT as the name suggests. Indoor bowls will be holding a CHALLENGER NIGHT soon. Just write up on the board who you wish to challenge to a game and we will accommodate that wish on the night. Look out Chris and partner 'cause Bobbie and Russell are out to challenge you.

Until next time, good hitting and rolling.

Happy Hour!
